Cross-Pollinate Your Research

Of interest to restorationists and design professionals:

Native Plants Journal is a forum for dispersing practical information about planting and growing North American native plants for conservation, restoration, reforestation, landscaping, highway corridors, and related uses. Topics include seed germination, planting techniques and tools, equipment, cultural techniques, production trends, seed collection, genetics, and fertilization. The second issue of each year includes the Native Plants Materials Directory, which provides information about producers of native plant materials in the U.S. and Canada. Relevant books are reviewed. Subscribers receive online access to all back issues. Volumes 1 through 5 are open access.
